About the presenter:

Sara Locke

Sara Locke is the parent of a child with an autism spectrum disorder and holds a Master's Degree in Special Education. She has taught special education in the middle school and preschool settings, worked as an early childhood community collaborative consultant, facilitated support groups for parents of children with special needs and worked as an advocate for families during the special education process. Most recently, Sara has worked with the Autism Services and Resource Center to provide autism awareness, safety, and risk management training to the members of law enforcement, emergency medical responders, professionals in the criminal justice system, providers in the mental health system, and staff members of public and private schools and universities.

About the sponsor: Connecticut Family Support Network is committed to helping families of individuals with disabilities and special health care needs, and the professionals who work with them, find information, resources, and supports to improve their lives.
